Grant applications are accepted by Global Philanthropy Alliance (GPA) only in written form. The applications require a description of specific program activities to be carried out as a result of the requested grant and the name of the person in the grant recipient organization who will be responsible for the proposed program. Indicators are spelled out to be used to measure success of the program funded.

Grant application approval triggers follow-up reporting. While the grant funded program is being conducted progress reports to GPA are encouraged. At the conclusion of the grant funded program the grant recipient is required to send a written report to GPA comparing the actual outcomes against the criteria and expectations set forth in the grant application. Also, on-site visits may be made by a GPA Advisory Board member or by another GPA partner in the area.
